Directions are a bit wordy but no problem when you have YouTube available. Not super convenient to change but works great. My one criticism is that you can change the cutter depth only by moving the bit up or down in the chuck. It is also too big and too heavy. Thought Bosch would come up with something better. I have had this table for 15 months and I am giving up on it. I have two issues that plague my usage. First, the inserts do not sit flush with the plate. This results in inevitable movement whenever a smaller piece moves across the insert. Second, the fence doesn't secure well. It is incredibly frustrating to take the time to set it just right to do a set of identical cuts on several pieces, only to be able to tell that the cut has drifted during the process. I get burned by this time and time again. Time to find a replacement.

Works Great With A 1617 Bosch Router, Thats All I Know So remember to use some compressed air to clean the dust after a day of hard use. Your insurance agent will Thank You for it,,if only they knew. Went through the instructions carefully they're pretty hard to read if you're over 40, but they're complete and easy to follow. There's a lot of accessories with this table from the feather boards to the bit height adjuster to the circle template and the built-in storage pockets do an okay job of holding them all they fit in nicely for shipping, but getting them all back in after use just didn't happen for me. A minor inconvenience considering it's a more than adequate, less than professional piece of equipment for the price. Great for the hobbyist, for sure. Also I did not get any large washers to put together the fence and feather boards all my washers were the same size small and do not work with setting up the feather boards to the fence. Therefore I cannot use them at all. I will have to go out and purchase washers that will work. The table does work with my Ryobi plunge router, but it is a little off center. I think I will be purchasing the fixed Bosch router that will align better and also adjust the bit level from the table top. Other than not having the large washers I am pleased with the cabinet style router table. I have used it several times during the week since I have purchased it. If Bosch sees this review maybe someone can send me out the correct washers so I can use the feather boards. This is a really nice portable but heavy table with everything you need. It even has shims that you can place behind the out fence to use it as a jointer. The only two things that are slightly annoying are. 1 the tool storage in the legs is marginally too small. It's very easy to insert and remove the router when you want to go mobile.

Installing it was a pain, and when they say don't overtighten the screws, well you can't help it if the threads have for some reason already been screwed up. My back left screw head just spun from the get-go and didn't tighten and the plate adjuster is a pain until you get it. Taking the router out from beneath to change a bit really isn't as bad as some mention on Youtube and in reviews. Just know where the Router clicks and you'll be fine. A second set of hands for this process makes it that much easier. Contacted Bosch and still waiting for a response 2 months later, customer service. Currently this table is used as a talking point when I have visitors, any chance I can return this. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again There is no mention of this that I could see. That aside the actual cabinet is excellent and far superior to anything I could find here even with shipping and import costs. Find out here how to install Home Connect appliances and connect them to the app. How to register and create your account Download the Home Connect app onto your smartphone or your tablet PC either from the Apple App Store or from the Google Play Store and install it. With the device connected to the WiFi network at the location of the HomeConnectenabled home appliance, open the Home Connect app. Enter your first name and surname, your email address user ID and any further information if required. Enter a password you have chosen yourself and confirm this. You will receive an email confirming your registration which contains a validation link. Confirm your registration by clicking on the validation link within 10 days. In some cases, certain settings need to be changed manually. If necessary, please check the following settings on your router. You can find information on the configuration settings in the installation instructions for your router. WPS configures the WiFi security automatically for WiFi Protected Setupenabled network devices. Open networks are not suitable for use with Home Connect. Home appliances are only compatible with a 2.4 GHz band. When you connect an appliance, please change the settings for your network accordingly. If the router on your home network has a WPS function, you can log the home appliance into the network automatically. If your router does not have a WPS function, or if you are not sure if it does, simply log your home appliance into the home network manually. How to integrate a home appliance into the home network The Home Connect wizard on your home appliance will display how to connect the appliance to your home network. A detailed description of the necessary steps can also be found in the insert which is supplied with your new home appliance.

Automatic network login The Home Connect wizard will attempt to automatically log in the relevant home appliance via the WPS function on your router you can find information about WPS in the instructions for your router. If you have enabled automatic login, you need to confirm the connection by pressing down the WPS button on your router within two minutes. As soon as the home appliance is successfully connected to your home network, a message appears in the appliance display confirming this. Manual network login You can also enable and set up the network login manually. The home appliance now establishes its own WiFi network which you can access using your smartphone or tablet PC. Now open the WiFi settings on your mobile device and connect it to the available Home Connect WiFi for your home appliance password HomeConnect. You will now be able to see the home appliance in the Home Connect app on your smartphone or tablet PC and you can transfer the access details for your home network WiFi to the home appliance and thus integrate it into your home network. How to connect a home appliance to the app If the relevant home appliance is logged into your home network, all you need to do is connect it to your Home Connect account. To do this, open the Home Connect app on your mobile device and log in. Since this step may vary on different home appliances, please see the insert supplied with your home appliance. The app automatically detects your appliance. Then get in touch and use our Customer Service. We are happy to help. And not just when you're at home, when you're out and about too.
